Political matters - Cuba

Page 4144-4144. Senator Smithers, (D) Florida, spoke concerning relations with Latin America and the Cuban situation. He commented on the Congress' previous lack of interest in the Latin American countries. Mr. Smithers stated "I hope that after the present danger exemplified by Castro's Cuba has ceased to exist one day it will, for I fully believe the Cubans will again one day be free—our interest in the welfare of our Latin neighbors will continue." Mr. Smithers makes reference to Castro's background stating "In January 1960 and through the early part of February I made another trip to the Central and South American countries and upon my return I outlined in a Senate speech on February 24 an eight-point program calculated to limit the activities of Castro's Communists in Central and South America. Among other things, I asked that we turn over to the OAS all the information which the FBI, CIA, and our other intelligence agencies had in their files on communism in Cuba and Castro's connection with it. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover had at this time—and long before—a dossier on Castro and his Communist connections that should have convinced the most ardent fan of Castro's in the State Department, of his allegiance to communism, but I doubt if they ever asked for this information or saw it."

THE NEW CLASS IN CUBA

Those who are inclined to be influenced by propaganda that communism is the answer for all evils and that it is the most humane social system ever devised should be afforded the opportunity to converse with those who have recently had occasion to view the Cuban scene. They would learn that "foreign technicians" in Cuba are receiving large salaries, residing in the most luxurious homes, and driving automobiles. These "foreign technicians" also have exclusive access to supermarkets where they can purchase items not available to most Cubans.

Meanwhile, the average Cuban finds it necessary to resort to the black market in order to obtain sufficient food, clothing, and other necessities. Apologists for communism and Castro's Cuba might find it difficult to believe that there is a flourishing black market in Cuba. It would be interesting to see their reaction when they were told by firsthand observers that a select few in the top leadership of the Cuban Government control enormous operations in the black market. It has been said that these operations are as lucrative as any illegal activities directed by corrupt officials during the Batista regime, but that they are under the control of a much smaller clique of high-ranking officials in the Government.

Communist Expansion

It was previously reported on February 28, 1963, that the Congress of Women from All America began in Cuba on January 11, 1963, and ended January 15, 1963, and that [REDACTED] of the Cuban Women's Federation, [REDACTED] the delegates, including some from Canada, the United States, and Latin America. b7C

"Diario Las Americas," a Spanish language daily newspaper published in Miami, reported on January 15, 1963, that Cuba was already preparing Communist propaganda urging that a Second Latin-American Youth Congress be held in Chile in June, 1963. The article stated they have already begun to hold meetings to prepare the Cuban delegates for this Communist affair, which will serve as a means of increasing their subversive campaign among the youth of the hemisphere.

On February 21, 1963, "Diario Las Americas" reported that broadcasts were heard in Miami protesting the arrest of [REDACTED] in Panama upon his return from Communist Cuba. [REDACTED] is a Panamanian rebel [REDACTED] who had been in Cuba to receive instructions, along with other Latin-American agitators. b7C

Under date of March 5, 1963, "Diario Las Americas" reported that the Communists were preparing for a national and international congress in Rio de Janeiro as an expression of support for the Cuban revolution. The article continued that according to reports, the congresses previously planned for January, 1963, were being set up in accordance with orders from Moscow, and their purpose was to set off a tremendous Red campaign in Latin America to "regain the prestige previously enjoyed by the CASTRO regime," which

The article further referred to the plane crash at Lima, Peru, and stated that in the documents found at the time of the plane crash was one carried by a Cuban diplomat, which revealed plans for the assemblies and the work of the Brazilian Communist Party, and requested "10,000" for expenses. The Brazilian Ministry was scheduled to provide maintenance for the delegates, and they were discussing paying for the expenses of the trip.

[REDACTED] who is widely acquainted with Cubans in and out of Cuba, who has access to certain news media from Cuba, and who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on March 18, 1963, that the Havana daily newspaper "Hoy," described as the official organ of the Cuban Communist Party, published an article stating the PURS was established in Guines, Cuba. PURS is the United Party of the Socialist Revolution. b2/b7D

The article stated a general assembly of the members of the PURS was convened in Guines on February 24, 1963, to consider the work accomplished by the Regional Direction of the PURS, and to approve an immediate Work Plan, and appoint a municipal committee for the organization. Members of the Secretariat of the Provincial Committee of the PURS are [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] (probably [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]) b7C

"PURS ESTABLISHED IN GUINES

"A General Assembly of the members of the United Party of the Socialist Revolution was held in Guines on February 24. The purpose of the assembly was to consider the work accomplished by the Regional Direction of the PURS and to approve an immediate Work Plan for the immediate future and to appoint a Municipal Committee of the organization.

"The members of the Secretariat of the Provincial Committee of the PURS, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] took part in the Assembly, as did [REDACTED] b7C

"The Regional Committee read the names of the proposed candidates, and told the qualifications of each candidate. The elections took place with simplicity and enthusiasm, and each member elected was received 'with a spontaneous demonstration of approval.'

CUBAN INSTITUTE OF PEOPLES FRIENDSHIP (ICAP)

After a disagreeable ordeal with the Cuban G-2, [REDACTED] was placed in touch with ICAP officials through his friend, [REDACTED] also a former resident of Key West and a member of the July 26th Movement. ICAP furnished [REDACTED] and two minor sons lodging in the [REDACTED] and assured him that there was no obligation on his part to pay for this friendly gesture. However, upon his departure from Cuba he was required to pay 2,583 pesos for an alleged [REDACTED] which had been furnished him. He was required to pay this amount because they said he had been found to be [REDACTED] the aid of the Cuban Revolutionary Government. b7C

He stated he did tell some reporter that red paint had been thrown on his car and on his house, and he had received unfriendly treatment from anti-Castro Cubans in the Key West area, but that he had never had any trouble or difficulty with any local or federal authorities in the United States. He stated he had gone to "Revolucion" and requested that a retraction be printed, but had been told that such a thing could not even be considered.

FIRST EMPLOYMENT

The Cuban Government therefore has used him as an outstanding model of good faith, although [REDACTED] actually is anti-Castro and hoping from day to day that the present regime will fall.

[REDACTED] stated he worked for 117 pesos per month and his economic condition became progressively worse. He sold his 1956 Plymouth for 1,350 pesos in order for his family to acquire some decent food on the black market. b7C

JUNTA CENTRAL DE PLANIFICACION

Re: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

██████████ stated that after a few weeks he actually felt embarrassed about receiving the pay since he did nothing to earn his money. Insofar as he could see, no one in the section was doing anything. He was finally sent out to buy all the radio tubes, resistors, and coils which he could find. Thousands of dollars worth of parts were stockpiled but none of it was ever put together or used in any way. b7C

He was then moved into another section of JUCEPLAN known as Localizacion de Recursos Nacionales (Location of National Resources) (LORENA).

GOVERNMENT WASTE AND CRAFT

Many of the large warehouses, stores and businesses taken over by the Cuban Government have long been under padlock without any actual inventories of merchandise available.

██████████ stated he discovered hundreds of sacks of hardened cement and many rusted, corroded and ruined motors which had not been properly cared for. b7C

At Casa Morter, he discovered 600 new refrigerators and over 1,000 other large electric appliances and motors. He interviewed the government official in charge and was told that the refrigerators were for the "Escuelas de los Becados" (scholarship schools which are schools run by the government for Cubans and other Latin Americans who can attend Cuban schools on scholarships).

██████████ pointed out that all of these schools had already received refrigerators and necessary equipment. b7C

The interview proceeded only a short time further and the official brusquely and in profane language informed ██████████ that if he desired to ascertain anything further concerning the refrigerators and other equipment, he should see ██████████ Fidel Castro. b7C

██████████ stated he wrote his report and gave it to his ██████████

██████████ read the report and sent it to the Minister Regino Boti. This touched off violent reactions. ██████████ the ██████████ of Economy, allegedly gave ██████████ a vicious tongue lashing because he allowed his employees "to poke their noses into matters which were none of their damn business". It developed that all of the equipment discovered was apparently for the private lucrative benefit of ██████████ and ██████████. CUBA * ██████████ who allegedly had numerous sources of lucrative income similar to the Norter business. CUBA

██████████ stated that while this was the only instance coming to his firsthand attention, he heard from various officials in the Cuban Government that many of the very top-ranking Cuban officials have enormous lucrative operations in the black market as large as those enjoyed by Batista officials in their heyday but reduced to a much smaller clique of high-ranking officials. b7C

TRANSFER TO THE MINISTRY OF INDUSTRY

██████████ stated that he and all of his group were transferred to the Ministry of Industry, which is under the ██████████. ██████████ stated he had a desk where he sat and did nothing for several weeks. He was then told that the government desires that he go to an automation school at Capdevila, which is located near the Rancho Boyeros Airport. He stated he knew his profession well, did not feel that he could learn new things and did not desire to go to the school. However, he was told that he had to go to the school. b7C CUBA

He made a visit to Capdevila, saw the working headquarters and the living quarters where he was to be interned for five months.

Re: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

He stated it developed that they needed his help as an instructor, rather than as a student. The school was made up of mostly Cubans, but also of other Latin Americans ranging from 16 to 20 years of age. There were also a few Cuban instructors, Chileans and some other Latin Americans. He stated he disliked everything he saw.

TALLER NACIONAL DE INSTRUMENTACION
(National Shop of Instrumentation) (TNI)

The TNI was supposed to be the work shop for the technicians. Instead of a well-ordered laboratory, as [REDACTED] was accustomed to seeing in the United States, he stated the TNI looked more like it was staffed with bricklayer's helpers and the instruments were scattered around in total disorder. He saw one student attempting to weld a pressure instrument which was made of potmetal. Instead of improving the instrument, he utterly destroyed it, since potmetal cannot be welded. b7C

Upon return to the Ministry of Industry, [REDACTED] stated flatly he would not go to the school. He was told by an individual with the rank of Captain that he would go to the school or he would be given the "blackball". He stated he did not know this individual's name, but he is now traveling around in Europe. b7C

[REDACTED] thereafter assigned [REDACTED] to [REDACTED] a separate shop on Calle Calzada between 12th and 14th Streets, using the premises which were formerly "Casa Zayden". These premises had to be cleared and work benches installed. He stated it was supposed to be something like an addition to a larger project the government had for automation. [REDACTED] stated he argued briefly against this project, pointing out that if they did not have workers and technicians who knew how to do anything by hand, it was not possible to create an industry which they could run by automation. The shop had a lathe, b7C

a drill and some articles from Russia and North Korea. The main effort on which work for several months had been extended was toward developing a differential transformer to control displacement. [REDACTED] stated this instrument is that which is used to fly a plane on automatic pilot, to cause a drill to penetrate to a certain depth and return to its original position, and perform various other controlled tasks. He stated this is a very simple problem and has long hence been produced by automation in the United States. The article is available throughout the United States at a very reasonable price. He stated one of the Cubans broke one of the machines being used and three Russians came over and repaired it. During the time they were there he observed that they did not speak to anyone. b7C

He noted in connection with the schools being run by the government that there are students from all over Latin America who attend schools from the University of Havana down to the trade schools and schools for technicians. All of them have to attend classes on socialism.

[REDACTED] stated that the Cuban Government does not appear to operate in any more of an organized fashion than it did when the untrained, uneducated forces of Fidel Castro took over in 1959. He stated the situation represents one of chaos and economic ruin. b7C

[REDACTED] stated the third floor of the building, formerly occupied by [REDACTED] is all set up for an electronics shop. All of the necessary equipment is present but the third floor is absolutely deserted and there is no one there as of April, 1963, with the necessary know-how to operate the equipment. b7C

LARGE BUILDING FOR RUSSIANS AT RANCHO BOYEROS

[redacted] stated that in April, 1963, after he knew he was going to possibly be allowed to leave Cuba, he was sent on a detail to clean up and prepare a large relatively-new building near Rancho Boyeros. He noted that it is about a block long and 100 feet wide and would make an ideal shop. The roof is divided into sections, one section rising about three feet above the other section, and sloping back in such a manner that the entire shop is properly illuminated and ventilated. He inquired of the man in charge of the detail if machinery was going to be installed in a big shop set-up there and he was told that it was being prepared for "Russian technicians" exclusively and the man in charge did not know to what use the Russians would put the building. b7C

[redacted] stated that it is not true that he was a member of the militia. He stated that as a technician he did not have to be a member of the militia but he did have to be a member of the Civil Guard, which meant that each tenth day he had to stand guard duty for four hours at the entrance or on one of the floors of some government building or shop. b7C

He concluded that in connection with foreign technicians, which did not include him since he was regarded as a Cuban, they have big salaries, the most luxurious homes, cars and certain supermarkets at which they can shop and obtain almost any food or wearing apparel they might desire. He stated this condition is bitterly resented by many Cubans who have an opportunity to observe such condition almost daily.

He further noted that there have been some difficulties with the Russian Government. He noted that the purchase price of the Russian Ilyushin aircraft spare parts were supposed to be included, however, they were not and the Russians are now procrastinating and avoiding delivery so that some of these airplanes are already out of service and others have over half of their flying hours used with no foreseeable ability to give the motors the necessary overhaul.

Memorandum

TO : Mr. Evans

DATE: 6/4/63

FROM : W. V. Cleveland

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED
HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED
DATE 7-3-04 BY 7441

MISCELLANEOUS - INFORMATION CONCERNING

██████████ telephonically advised SA ██████████ at 8:40 p.m., 6/2/63 that she resided at ██████████ and was employed as a ██████████ in the public high school system, Miami, Florida. She stated that the previous evening she and her husband attempted to visit a neighborhood drug store and were prevented in doing so by a group of 15 Cuban teen-agers. ██████████ indicated that had she not known some of them on a first name basis she is certain they would have inflicted physical harm upon her and her husband. ██████████

██████████ said that she was very upset over the Cuban situation in Florida and was really annoyed with the Miami Police Department and was disappointed when informed that the Miami Office of the FBI was unable to help her in connection with her complaint as set forth above.

██████████ became more excited as her conversation continued and it was difficult to pin her down as to the reason for calling FBI headquarters. b6

Her husband, [REDACTED] who apparently had been listening in to the conversation, identified himself and stated he was employed by the Post Office Department in Miami. He mentioned having observed mail going to Cuban refugees in the Miami area, which he is certain contained checks. He indicated concern as to the source of income on the part of Cuban refugees in the Miami area. [REDACTED] did not appear as erratic about the Cuban situation in Miami as his wife and if, as he indicated, he is employed by the Government and is in a position to observe correspondence directed to Cuban refugees in Miami, it is felt he may be of some assistance to the Miami Office in this matter.

A check of Bureau indices revealed no identifiable information concerning captioned individual or her husband.

Date: May 22, 1963
FBI File No. 100-12-210-4345

Qc1 Auto-Sint copy of sheet of paper containing a series of words and numbers beginning "Decode strict ---" and ending "--- copy - 1 & 2."

Result of examination:

The five-digit groups have some technical characteristics indicating presence of a valid code or cipher system but the amount of cipher text available is too brief to permit decryption. Remaining plain text appears to be in English.

Political Matters - Cuba

THE LEGACY OF CUBA

"If Communism should obtain a permanent foothold in Latin America... then the balance of power would move against us and peace would be even more insecure."

John F. Kennedy, September 14, 1960

"I think it is clear that the importance of Cuba is less than we think... on the surface evidence of the headlines... The real issue here is not what does or does not happen in marginal daily conflicts with the disgraceful Castro regime. The real question is what happens in the processes of the societies of the Western Hemisphere as a whole."

McGeorge Bundy, as quoted in the Congressional Record, May 8, 1963

Today, Communism does have a permanent foothold in Latin America. The 1960 prophecy of candidate Kennedy has come dismally true. But President Kennedy's advisors, such as Mr. Bundy, are engaged in a massive effort to deny the truth of the President's earlier prophecy.

This truth cannot be denied. It smothers and stultifies every constructive Cold War policy of the United States, including the heavily stressed effort to promote social and economic reforms in Latin America. Mr. Bundy argues further, in the speech quoted from above, that "the whole international posture of the United States is stronger today than it was 3 or 4 years ago", and that "we are known to be stronger." This was true for a brief period last October, but not now. Communist power in Cuba and the present U.S. reaction to it is destroying the healthy image of U.S. strength created by our October action. The present truth is much more accurately described by Senator Margaret Smith (in a Senate speech on May 9, 1963):

"How can the United States of America ever again claim to be the leader of the free world or ever hope to achieve the respect of other peoples so long as we tolerate - whether willingly or begrudgingly - the presence of this festering infection so very close to home?"

Mr. Bundy admits that his claim of increased U.S. strength is based mainly on improved intelligence data which reveal that the "missile gap", estimated three years ago, never existed. This is correct, and it is one of the reasons why the Soviets put their missiles in Cuba and one of the reasons why they backed down before U.S. power last October. However, the "quantity gap" in our favor is a transitory thing and is becoming steadily less real and less important. Technologically, the Soviets may already be ahead of us in the arms race. (See WR 63-8) Furthermore, since last October there have been many indications that those in the Kremlin who favor a quantitative increase in Soviet nuclear strength have won their point. The so-called "pause" in Soviet policy has ended - if it ever existed. A "hardening" of the Soviet position on all issues is apparent. An even grimmer period of the Cold War almost certainly lies ahead.

This turn of events is at least partly the direct result of the Administration admission that it is deterred from a blockade or other employment of force in the Cuban situation out of fear of war with the Soviet Union. This position has been carried to the tragic extreme of denying to the Cuban people even the right to take up arms to help liberate their homeland. Two years ago, when a different policy prevailed, the President declared that, "The American people are not complacent about Iron Curtain tanks and planes less than 90 miles from our shores." Now there are many more Soviet planes and tanks in Cuba and large numbers of Soviet troops as well. Regardless of whether or not there are still offensive missiles in Cuban caves, the fact remains that a major Soviet military presence has been solidly established. There is not the slightest indication that this force is going to be removed, and not the slightest indication that the United States intends to force its removal. Unless this is done, Communism cannot be overthrown by Cubans.

On May 9, 1963, the Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee, headed by Senator Stennis, reported the results of its preliminary investigation of the Cuban situation. On the matter of Soviet troops in Cuba, the unanimous Subcommittee report downgraded Administration claims that the figure has been reduced to 12-13,000 men. The official intelligence estimate remains at 17,500, even though 4,000-5,000 have been seen to withdraw since the first of the year. This is because a) the original estimates were very imprecise, and b) there is evidence that the Soviets are merely rotating their forces, with at least as many coming in as going out. The Soviets make a very obvious show of removing people, but can easily bring them in clandestinely. Meanwhile, estimates by refugees and those who have travelled extensively in Cuba put the figure at 30-40,000 Soviets still in Cuba.

Senator Stennis' personal conclusion, expressed in the Senate on May 9 is very significant:

"I am convinced that the number one priority of our national and foreign policy should and must be the complete removal of all Russians from Cuba and the adoption of a firm and hard plan which once and for all will rid our hemisphere of this threat.

has degenerated sharply. Sugar production is at a new low. But Cuban supported subversion continues, and there is no sign of any internal crackup of the regime. Soviet forces make any internal uprising impossible.

Overall, our Cuban policy is failing and is bound to fail. This is because the Soviet Union has both the will and the capability to ensure that it fails. Cuba may very well be a "showcase of failure", and it may cost the U.S.S.R. $1 million daily to maintain it, but this is a very cheap price to pay for the tremendous political, military, and psychological gains which Cuba provides to Communism. The triumphal reception given Castro in Moscow should dispel any wishful ideas that the Soviets are about to pull out of Cuba.

Cuba is important to Khrushchev and to Communism generally. It is enormously important. It is impossible to overestimate this. The solidification of Soviet control of Cuba is the most shattering defeat for American policy since the Cold War began. Cuba is now the fulcrum of the Cold War, the center of the chess-board. We have long been prepared to fight a thermonuclear war if necessary to keep the Soviets out of West Berlin. Why? Not because their presence there would constitute any additional military threat, but because of the devastating psychological consequences which would flow from a retreat on a firm commitment. In this sense, Cuba is the West Berlin of the Western Hemisphere. It is the breach in the center of our line, and the Soviets are throwing the whole weight of their offensive through that breach. For more than two years now, we have been formally pledged to the elimination of this Communist base, but it still stands. This is the overarching fact which dominates the Latin American and even the world scene. It will loom larger and larger as time passes.

There is no painless way to eliminate either the Soviet presence in Cuba or, more important, the Castro regime itself. There are many prescriptions being offered, but one truth stands out: Some element of force or the clear and unequivocal threat of force is going to be required. This is because the imperative for the U.S. to remove Communism from Cuba is matched by an equal imperative of Soviet policy to maintain it there if this can be done without war. The interests of the U.S. and U.S.S.R. are basically irreconcilable on Cuba. Khrushchev has invested far too much and committed his prestige far too deeply to ever give it up voluntarily. Only the possibility of war will - as last October - induce him or his "hardline" colleagues to withdraw.

On the other hand, if we continue to reject the use of force in the Caribbean, there is only one logical alternative and ultimately we will take it. There cannot be a permanent status-quo. If pressures are not increased, they will decrease. If Castro is not eliminated by diplomatic and economic warfare, support for even this policy will crumble. Then we will resume diplomatic relations with Castro, probably give up our Guantanamo base, and treat Cuba as we now treat the East European satellites, hoping for "Titoism" or some form of "evolution" to solve the problem.

There are already indications that such a shift is in the wind. Roosevelt Roads, in Puerto Rico, is being refurbished, possibly to handle the naval forces now based in Guantanamo (U.S. News and World Report, May 20, 1963);

"To those who say that this involves risks and the danger of war, I reply that there comes a time - as it did last October - when risks must be taken in order to protect and preserve our vital national interests. The risks of doing nothing - of allowing this Communist threat to fester and grow and perhaps subvert nation after nation - are infinitely greater."

Mr. Rusk, however, disagrees. He denies flatly that the Soviet Union can be forced out of Cuba without war, and he denies that the threat now posed by a Communist Cuba warrants military action. In Mr. Rusk's words:

"Let's not kid ourselves that waving missiles is going to cause the other side to roll over and play dead. If you want to do all sorts of drastic things on the assumption that no shooting will result just don't entertain any such illusion. It is necessary to incur very great risks in order to meet great threats... But it is not my judgment that the threat in Cuba at the present time warrants the escalation of violence which would be involved in direct military action against that island." (April 22, 1963, State Department Press Release #213)

The Secretary of State's statement, first of all, serves to nullify Bundy's claim of a more powerful United States. How does the assertion that the Soviet Union is both capable and willing to fight a war in the Caribbean (or to risk nuclear war by aggression someplace else) cause anyone to believe that the U.S. is now stronger than 3 or 4 years ago? And how does such an admission that we dare not use force serve to promote the cause of "moderation" within the Kremlin? If anything, it may cause them to wonder if we were not bluffing after all last October.

Most important is the implication running through Administration statements that Cuba without offensive missiles is not a direct threat to U.S. security and, therefore, does not require any form of military action. This change of outlook is very typical of the containment policy. We say we will defend our vital interests by force if necessary, but we do not now consider Communist control of Cuba as contrary to our vital national interest. Two years ago, we did. The only thing that has changed in the interval is the evaluation of the risk of defending that vital interest by force. So the Administration now denies that a vital interest is any longer involved.

In contrast, here are a few of the points made by the Stennis Subcommittee in summarizing the Russian threat to the Americas:

1. "Cuba is an advanced Soviet base for subversive revolutionary and agitational activities in the Western Hemisphere, and affords the opportunity to export agents, funds, arms ammunition, and propaganda throughout Latin America."

2. "Assuming, without deciding, that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the Soviet forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity."
3. "Cuba serves as an advanced intelligence base for the U. S. S. R."
4. "Potentially, Cuba is a base from which the Soviets could interdict our vital air and sea lanes. It can now be used for the air, sea and electronic surveillance of our military activities in the Southeast United States and the Caribbean."
5. "Advanced Soviet submarine bases could be established in Cuban ports with very little effort." (Exiles report that two submarine bases are now in operation at Banes and Mariel - Ed.)
6. "Cuba provides a base for training agents of other Latin American countries in subversive, revolutionary, agitational and sabotage techniques." (Just one example: Every month, groups of Columbian students leave for Cuba for such training. They fly by chartered plane to Curacao and are picked up there by Cuban airlines - Ed.)
7. "The very presence of the Soviets in Cuba affects adversely our nation's image and prestige. Our friends abroad will understandably doubt our ability to meet and defeat the forces of Communism thousands of miles across the ocean if we prove unable to cope with the Communist threat at our very doorstep."

The last point is perhaps the most crucial. It affects the psychology of the Cold War - the credibility of U. S. willingness to aid and defend its friends. When we refuse to aid the Cuban freedom fighters and actually prevent them from acting on their own - even when based outside U. S. territory - and when we not only betray the hopes of the exile leader, Miro Cardona, but also heap personal abuse on his head because he dares to speak out at last, we do infinite disservice to the cause of truth, liberty and peace.

Neither did we improve our standing in Latin America by our recent performance in Costa Rica. Contrary to the expressed wishes of the presidents of the Central American countries involved in the conference - particularly Guatemals and Nicaragua - President Kennedy insisted in advance that a tough policy toward Cuba was not to be a topic of discussion. The result was predictable mediocrity - effusive and empty rhetoric signifying almost nothing.

We do, of course, have a Cuban policy. It is to "isolate" Cuba diplomatically, and ruin it economically. This, we hope, will shut off the flow of subversion and induce the voluntary withdrawal of Soviet power from Cuba, because it will be too expensive to maintain.

There have been limited and superficial successes for these efforts. Most of the hemispheric nations have severed diplomatic relations, although the most important nations - Brazil and Mexico - have not. And the Cuban economy has degenerated sharply. Sugar production is at a new low. But Cuban supported subversion continues, and there is no sign of any internal crackup of the regime. Soviet forces make any internal uprising impossible.

Overall, our Cuban policy is failing and is bound to fail. This is because the Soviet Union has both the will and the capability to ensure that it fails. Cuba may very well be a "showcase of failure", and it may cost the U.S.S.R. $1 million daily to maintain it, but this is a very cheap price to pay for the tremendous political, military, and psychological gains which Cuba provides to Communism. There are already indications that such a shift is in the wind. Roosevelt Roads, in Puerto Rico, is being refurbished, possibly to handle the naval forces now based in Guantanamo (U.S. News and World Report, May 20, 1963);

Prisoner negotiator Donovan is looked upon by some as a possible ambassador to Cuba; Castro has gone out of his way to praise the crackdown on the Cuban exiles and to say that he would be willing to try to find "the basis" for better relations with the United States. The State Department is even now softening up Congress and public opinion for the resumption of relations with Hungary. There will be ample precedent.

Such a full circle in policy would only compound the disaster and open wide the floodgates to Communism throughout the hemisphere. But even as it is, current American policy toward Cuba constitutes the broadest possible invitation to the Communist world to intensify the Cold War, to resist efforts at genuine disarmament, and to instigate further major tests of U.S. determination to resist its advances. It provides strong support for the Chinese "hardline" argument, because it tends to show that we are, after all, only paper tigers. It will inevitably encourage as well those within the Kremlin who perhaps favor a more militant policy. Neither so called "isolation" of Communist Cuba nor coexistence with it - if that should be the next policy turn - is the road to peace. It is, rather, the road to eventual war.

We would do well, in thinking of Cuba, to remember the words of Winston Churchill, uttered before the outbreak of World War II:

"Still if you will not fight for the right when you can easily win without bloodshed; if you will not fight when your victory can be sure and not too costly; you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance to survive. There may even be a worse case: You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory and it will be better to perish than to live in slavery."

The legacy of Cuba is a witch's brew which contains the most mortal threat to the security and the survival of this nation.

[REDACTED] is extremely enthusiastic about the Cuban Revolution and impressed by it. He compares the Cuban Revolution with the Chinese and Russian Revolutions. FIDEL CASTRO was not in Cuba at the time of his trip, but he did have private meetings with RAUL CASTRO and "CHE" GUEVARA. He indicated these were merely courtesy meetings with Mexican delegates and he had been questioned as to conditions in Mexico. He was astonished at the prestige his wife enjoyed with these two leaders. b7C

He told the Chinese he did not think he would have much difficulty in delivering the letter since this was his wife. The Chinese Ambassador told him that they greatly admired his wife.

This letter was from the president of the Artist's Union at Peiping, China, and contained the greetings of this individual who wrote at length about the fight against "Yankee imperialism." The writer of the letter complained that previous letters from the [REDACTED] had not been received by him. He claimed one of the letters arrived in an inexplicable manner in Moscow and the other had not been received although sent through diplomatic channels from Cuba. The writer requested that further letters be directed to them at their headquarters in Peiping. b7C

[REDACTED] said that the letters she sent China were routine and contained standard greetings and etchings from the Taller de Grafica Popular (TGP - Popular Arts Work Shop), a local artist group founded for communist propagandizing. b7C

[REDACTED] considered that this letter was broadly hinting that the Russians were intercepting Chinese diplomatic pouches and further that the Cuban mail could not be trusted as long as the Russians were there. b7C

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The following statements are comments of [REDACTED] concerning the situation in Cuba today, in places amplified by her husband's comments, noting that he was not always in accord with her views: b7C

IN GENERAL

Today, three years after the revolution, the island is still in reconstruction. It may be that they have won the revolution and lost the country. The economic management of the island is deplorable. Of all Latin America, Cuba and the Cubans were the most Americanized, far more so than Puerto Rico or Mexico. The cane worker of Cuba was much better off than the field worker in Mexico. The Cuban Revolution was not based on economic necessity, but was a revolt against oppression and dictatorship. The current economic chaos in Cuba is disgraceful. The causes of this situation are set out hereinafter under appropriate subheadings.

GOVERNMENT DOMINATED BY FOREIGNERS

The country is run by foreign intellectuals who are absolutely single-minded and considered dull-witted by the Cubans. The Russians are admired as men of integrity and purpose, but the Cubans avoid personal contact with them. The Americans generally are unfitted for the work they do and look bad to the Cubans in comparison with the highly trained American technicians who were on the island before the revolution.

BAD BUSINESS PRACTICES

As an example she said the operation of the Havana Hilton, now known as Friendship Hall, is a disgrace. Although the bellhops, cooks, etc., are the same as before the revolution, the food is atrocious and the service worse. All that is missing is the executive class. She complained violently about the service at the hotel. She was furious to discover that one particularly incompetent, impertinent bellhop had worked for 15 years with Hilton.

CONFIDENTIAL

[redacted] hope for an improvement in the management of the hotels as [redacted] has recently been placed [redacted] of the National Hotel Commission and will [redacted] the Hilton and the Riviera. They consider this a realistic appointment since [redacted] at least is acquainted with the hotel business through having operated a six-bedroom inn in Guanajuato, Mexico. Cuba b7C

It makes no difference that the elevators do not run in Moscow or Peiping, as they never have, but to have elevators not functioning in the Hilton in Havana during the revolution when they always operated before makes a bad example. The revolution should mean that you progress from the pre-revolutionary status.

FAILURE OF CANE HARVEST

[redacted] said the cane was still not cut when he was in Cuba. He said thousands of Cubans volunteered to go out on Sunday to cut the cane, but they mostly played at it and only one field got cut. This angered [redacted] who asked if the Cubans needed a bourgeois American overseer to show them out to cut cane. She said the Russian technicians do not understand this problem and have not set proper quotas. Additionally, the Cubans themselves have not been utilizing their experts in this field. b7C

BUREAUCRACY

Everyone in Cuba is an official. The bureaucracy was bad when she was there and is confirmed by her husband as presently being even worse. Everyone is an authority and the less they know, the more authoritative they are. The foreigners who run the country claim they are genuine revolutionaries, but no one actually wants to work. All want to be executives, generally in some field in which they have no background.

Foreign press violations are extremely important and are [redacted] who has no background except that of a jargon-ridden communist reporter. [redacted] has yet to issue a press statement of interest to any but a communist publication. Cuba b7C

MISUNDERSTANDING THE NATURE OF THE CUBANS

One of the worst things is that no one has taken the trouble to understand the nature of the Cuban people. Both [redacted] feel that the basic nature of the Cuban is completely overlooked and that what would make the Cuban a superior revolutionary and worker were the very things that permitted his exploitation by the capitalists. They are able workers when competently directed and a proud people who would respond instantly to the operation of their country in a practical fashion. [redacted] claimed the Cubans are oriented too much in American ways and are luxury-loving and looking for fun. By way of illustration of Cuban materialism and impracticality he said the Cuban Government received in a trade deal some 100,000 meters of silk from China. The Government, considering that the Cubans had been educated away from materialism, put the silk on the market assuming the Cuban women would prefer sturdier and more practical fabrics. Also the Cuban women lacked high heels and accessories to go with the silken fabrics. The silk sold out in 48 hours and a day later women all over the island were dressed in tight silk dresses, as in the time of BATISTA. [redacted] said she did not see why conversion to communism or socialism had to be shown as such a grim thing.

[redacted] gave several examples of circumstances which she considers must be extremely galling to the Cuban people. For example, at a national rally for women delegates [redacted] (a Negro performer) was introduced as the top Cuban singing star. She said this is an example of rewarding loyalty without considering the value of talent. It is clear the ordinary people of Cuba know better and consider they are being treated as fools. Another example is [redacted] who was an ordinary dancer in Mexico and has been given his own musical comedy company. She said it must be galling for Cubans to be given orders concerning economics from anyone as heavyhanded as [redacted]

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

[redacted] believes that the failure to take into account the Cuban personality by those operating the country is the reason for the wide-spread "sluffing off" by the workers. She visited Cuba before the revolution and said the Cubans were excellent mechanics who could keep cars operating with tin cans and rubber bands. Therefore, she cannot understand why cars are broken down along the roads. She feels the mechanics simply do not want to make the effort. b7C

TREATMENT OF VISITORS

This is another particularly glaring example of mismanagement and lack of planning. For example, a nonpolitical group of women delegates from a Moslem country were served pork at a meal and were naturally greatly offended.

They have a Friendship Center at the airport where allegedly all visitors are greeted by someone who speaks the visitor's language. However, it is bleak and grim and makes a poor impression on travelers who are not comrades.

INTRIGUES

Related to the big problem of bureaucracy is the constant intriguing. Every privilege is issued by higher officials and the favor of the top leaders is carefully cultivated. This includes salaries, better apartments, cars, food privileges, etc. This results in considerable personal rivalry and a lot of politicking and apple polishing. As a result, the best man for the job does not always get it. Should a good man get the job, he will be out should he show any independence of thought or differ with his superiors. For example, [redacted] who [redacted] the National Ballet, and [redacted] are each trying to undermine the other's prestige, which results in no benefit to either. b7C

RADIO

There are two overseas broadcasts in English, both horrible. Fortunately, so is the Voice of America broadcast received in Cuba. The radio industry is a prime example of mismanagement. Cuban radio is a bad imitation of the Voice of Moscow, which is the dreariest radio broadcasting extant except the Voice of America. There are hundreds of Cubans and many Cuban actors who speak flawless English and yet they use announcers whose British accents are probably offensive to the United States listener. Additionally, they utilize political terms unknown and even offensive to any but the most doctrinaire Marxists. One evening she counted "Yankee imperialist" seven times during a four-minute program and said that the United States audience with good and varied entertainment available, would switch the dial at once. She said a communist does not need this kind of program and it will not reach any other type of audience.

The worst program on Cuban radio is [REDACTED] b7C
[REDACTED] "Libre Sur" (Free South), which is directed to the Negroes of the Southern United States. She claimed it was insulting to assume that any Southern Negro would listen to it and said it would be laughable if it were not identified with Cuba. The program calls upon the Negro to leave the fields of their Yankee imperialist master. She said the "slaves on the plantation approach" is greatly out of date and that the program works to the benefit of the United States because the United States Negro can look around him and see that such statements are false and write off the Cubans as crackpots. [REDACTED] who [REDACTED] the program, is so patently illiterate and backward that the Negroes they want to reach, the churchmen, teachers, students and leaders, are automatically offended everytime he identifies himself and addresses them as "we." [REDACTED] considers [REDACTED] extremely dangerous and would like to see him leave Cuba. She believes he may be a secret member of the Muslims (Nation of Islam). He stirs up unrest among the Cuban workers with whom he lives and is unknown to foreigners because he will not speak with them if they are white.

SHORTAGES

Reportedly many of the shortages existing at the time of [redacted] visit to Cuba had been corrected by the time [redacted] traveled to the island. For example, there are now enough eggs. Things such as tooth paste, cold cream and deodorants are still rationed. [redacted] says there is still an acute shortage of fresh meat, green vegetables and fruits and the Cubans feel these shortages acutely. [redacted] claimed he found an adequate supply of everything, but [redacted] said that this was because he was accustomed to the Mexican diet. b7C

The children are now given all their meals at school and have a well-balanced diet. They go to school at seven o'clock and return home after dinner. They have a well-coordinated schedule at school of work and athletics. Art and dance classes are included. This is one field in which there are innumerable competent people. All efforts have been made to produce clothes and books for them and they are correctly shod and dressed.

Funds from the United States, plus Russian and Chinese aid, have made it possible to obtain drugs outside of the United States and medical equipment is also now available. Nurses, secretaries and teachers are now in abundance, thanks to the training program undertaken two years ago. These have made life much easier in the schools and hospitals.

REPORTED AMERICAN SPY IN CUBA

[redacted] said that an American arrived in Cuba some time ago who behaved in a very suspicious manner. This individual was constantly asking all kinds of questions of everyone he met. [redacted] met this man and reported him because he came around to the Mexican Delegation and asked a number of curious questions. One question he continually asked was how people got their mail off the island and into the United States. He told [redacted] he himself sent his mail to someone in b7C

CONFIDENTIAL

Mexico. He asked [redacted] if he knew [redacted]. He said he had met [redacted] on the way to Cuba and that [redacted] had offered to forward his mail to him. b7C

This apparently refers to [redacted] a veteran of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade and a resident of Mexico who associates with the ACGM. b7C

The Abraham Lincoln Brigade has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States under Executive Order 10450.

The American seemed to have an unlimited amount of money and was very generous in buying dinner and drinks for everyone. He reportedly came to Cuba through official channels. There were other complaints about his activities besides [redacted] believed it was established that he was an American agent. The American disappeared one day and [redacted] claims he believes he was picked up by the police and deported to the country of his choice. b7C

The Cubans are now painfully aware that nothing is going to be accomplished without a major all-inclusive recovery plan. They still listen to outside advisors, but are breaking away from the first concept of the revolution as paralleling the Chinese and Russian Revolutions, realizing that Cuba was already well in advance of either of these countries, both industrially and economically.

EXPORTING THE CUBAN REVOLUTION

Both [redacted] are actively working for revolution in Mexico and feel that Mexico will be communist within ten years. They look toward Cuba to furnish the leadership for this revolution. They claim that Mexicans, although highly nationalistic, will accept Cubans as leaders of guerilla groups because there is no language barrier. The communists will need trained officers and arms for the revolution in Mexico and these will come from Cuba although Cuba may not bear the economic burden. There are already a number of communist Cubans in Yucatan and they expect action there within a year. b7C

[REDACTED]

Internal Political Situation:

The Estimate points out the domination of the Cuban political scene by the personality of Fidel Castro. This domination is believed to be a weakness of the system as problems arising from Castro's natural or untimely death would lead to political chaos. The Estimate states that political activity in Cuba in the near future will be aimed at consolidating Castro's one-party system so it can withstand an emergency which would arise with the necessity to suddenly replace its leader.

Armed Forces:

Cuban Armed Forces capabilities are expected to expand with additional training by Soviet instructors. Combined Cuban Armed Forces are estimated at 283,000. Cuban forces will probably start moving to Soviet military installations in mid-Summer 1963 with completion occurring one year later.

Economy:

Cuban economy has deteriorated during 1962 and is expected to deteriorate further during 1963. Scarcity is not considered a critical weakness for Castro's regime. Soviet and bloc shipping has filled many of the essential needs of Cuban economy. The 1963 sugar crop, while small, will probably yield sizable foreign cash reserves in view of recent rise in sugar prices. Apathy and noncooperation of Cuban workers continues to slow recovery in the economy field.

Castro and Latin America:

The Estimate points out recent meeting between Castro and Soviet leaders has probably resulted in Castro tempering his former attitude of actively supporting violent revolutions in other Latin-American countries.

Soviet Forces in Cuba:

Soviet forces are estimated between 12,000 and 13,000. Recent military shipments are believed to be of a type to maintain and resupply existing stocks previously in Cuba. The USSR is not believed contemplating reintroduction of strategic weapons in Cuba; however, this comment was qualified by the observation that reintroduction of strategic weapons cannot be ruled out entirely. A compilation of estimated Soviet military equipment in Cuba is attached.

Observations:

Cuba - Soviet relations are not permanently stabilized. It is expected developments in the immediate future will include no planned overt action which would trigger United States or Organization of American States joint action against the Castro regime.

Reurlet and letterhead memorandum dated 6-21-63.

Bureau does not consider referenced letterhead memorandum to be suitable for dissemination under the caption, "Foreign Political Matters - Cuba." The memorandum does not contain any information concerning the Brazilian-Cuban Cultural Center, Sao Paulo, Brazil, other than its location at the office of [redacted], the purpose of this Cultural Center and/or the activities which go on in the Cultural Center are of interest to the Bureau and/or other governmental agencies, same should be determined and reported.

Referenced letterhead memorandum contains various comments from your source concerning the activities of [redacted] which more properly should be reported under his caption. With respect to [redacted] "facility" for engaging in dope traffic, you should interview your source for details, including extent of his activities, sources and identities of any individuals assisting him in such traffic. You should determine what the "order of Montezuma" is and why anyone would pay a high price for obtaining a decoration known as the "order of Montezuma." Your letterhead memorandum fails to indicate the connection between [redacted] and [redacted] You should determine what your source means when he states [redacted] has been "condemned" for theft and receipt of stolen jewels. The letterhead memorandum fails to indicate the significance of [redacted] connection with [redacted]

With respect to the allegation that [redacted] has used his position as [redacted] to engage in the infiltration of Latin-American communists into Brazil, your source should be questioned as to the basis for this allegation and all details obtained. The same holds true with respect to the allegation that [redacted] and his associates may be engaged in the transportation of arms for these Latin-American communists.

You should immediately recontact your source in line with the above and resubmit information obtained under appropriate caption in a form suitable for dissemination.

INTERNAL SECURITY - CUBA

On June 18, 1963, [REDACTED], a Cuban residing in the Miami area who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that Fidel Castro Ruz, Prime Minister of Cuba, spoke over Cuban radio at 11:00 A. M. from Cardenas, Cuba, in connection with the launching of 17 new Cuban fishing boats. During Castro's speech he acknowledged that an attack had been made by a "pirate ship" on a small key near Cardenas, Cuba, in which one Cuban militiaman had been killed and two militiamen had been kidnaped. Castro did not mention the United States or make reference to any damage suffered in Cuba as a result of this attack.

[REDACTED] stated that Castro directed a portion of his speech to President De Gaulle of France and to the British, warning them that if they gave an island to the Cuban exiles it would be attacked and destroyed by the revolutionary government of Cuba. Castro also stated that if there is another attack against Cuba that he would get the attackers regardless of where they might go.

[REDACTED] believed Castro possibly referred to the alleged raid on Cuba by [REDACTED], which occurred about June 11, 1963 at Cayos Blancos, northeast coast of Cuba off Varadero.

SUBJECT: THE CUBAN SITUATION

POLITICAL MATTER - CUBA

At request of Army,

who broke the [REDACTED] espionage cases in Great Britain and [REDACTED] Army and FBI, has prepared an evaluation of the Cuban situation and recommended that United States take new aggressive approach to get Soviets out of Cuba and to overthrow Castro. Army G-2 is recommending to Secretary of Army that [REDACTED] recommendations be submitted to [REDACTED] appointed by the White House.

[REDACTED] who is also known to Bureau as [REDACTED] and now uses the name [REDACTED] and resides in [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He has been here since [REDACTED] and recently indicated he is dissatisfied with arrangements made for him here. On June 19, 1963, G-2 furnished the Liaison representative a lengthy document prepared in the source's own language concerning the Cuban situation. It was prepared at the instigation of G-2 and, although source notes he never had any particular interest in Cuba during [REDACTED] when he was engaged in [REDACTED] intelligence activities, he basically has taken the position that the United States has grossly mishandled the Cuban problem in that it has not taken cognizance of the Soviet influence in Cuba or the likelihood that the United States will be wiped out if the Communist Chinese also get a strong hold in Cuba as have the Soviets. A summary of the source's lengthy document follows:

United States intelligence allowed Castro to assume power and open the doors of Cuba to the Soviets by failure to provide the Administration timely and accurate information from competent sources as to what was going on in Cuba. United States intelligence organizations do not realize the inherent differences between Soviet-bloc intelligence organizations and those in the Western Hemisphere. Thus, moves by the United States, such as the economic blockade of Cuba, have played into the Soviets' hands and subsequent courses of action taken by United States have been formulated in haste without regard as to the complexity of the Cuban problem. The United States is obsessed with the use of technical coverage in collecting intelligence data and tends to ignore the significance of having live sources in place who are essential if effective intelligence operations are to be carried out.

He certainly is right as to this. H

The United States should realize that developments in Cuba are in accordance with long-term Soviet planning and that the Cuban problem is chiefly a political one rather than a military problem which could be solved simply by dropping an atomic bomb on Cuba.

The source recommends that a special secret task force be established, using personnel in existing intelligence organizations, which would be solely dedicated to carrying out aggressive actions against Cuba. Purpose of this group would be to establish an offensive counterintelligence operation against Cuba; conduct political, military and propaganda diversions there; initiate anti-Castro operations in Latin-American countries and instigate pressure within the Cuban armed forces and Cuban Communist Party to arouse distrust among the Cuban people of Castro, the Soviets and the Communist Chinese. He recommends that a Cuban refugee organization be set up on paper which would be blamed for the activities being carried out by this special group and he called on the United States intelligence agencies to eliminate ineffective and outmoded practices and thereby allow this special group to compete with Soviet intelligence on equal terms. He foresees that this group would subject Cuba to such pressure that Castro would be overthrown within 20 months. His plan would include assassinations, abductions, attacks on Cuban diplomatic establishments, sinking of Soviet vessels, sabotage and various propaganda measures aimed at creating discord between the Cubans and the Soviets. He recommends that the regular intelligence agencies continue their normal duties and provide this special group data on which specific aggressive activities would be based.

OBSERVATIONS:

The source, who has been cooperating with the United States Government since [REDACTED], acknowledges that the United States Government will probably pay no attention to his recommendations but he strongly warns that it will be disastrous if some aggressive action is not taken and Communist China is allowed to operate from Cuba to the extent the Soviets are now operating. The source insists that his observations must be furnished the highest echelons of the United States Government and [REDACTED] G-2 will be held responsible if his document is not closely guarded with his identity completely protected. While it is obvious that many of his observations can be interpreted as hindsight, the source is one of the most valuable individuals to ever defect to the West, had an outstanding record with [REDACTED] and was in constant contact with Soviet intelligence officials. Since he indicates he originally refused to prepare the document when requested to do so by G-2, it can be speculated that Army, knowing his position with regard to the Cuban situation, plans to use the document to bring about pressure on the Administration for a more aggressive policy toward Cuba. It is noted, however, that Army has not attempted to edit the document and that the contents thereof are in the source's own words. (S)

Two specific references are made to the FBI. [REDACTED] notes he is now serving as a source [REDACTED] FBI and G-2 and, based on this relationship, he does not have as high regard for United States intelligence as the Soviets do. It is noted source directed a letter to President Kennedy on June 15, 1963, in which he was most critical of his handling [REDACTED] and included therein were statements showing his very high regard for the Director and the FBI. The other reference was a recommendation that the FBI function as the security agency for the secret task force directed against Cuba. (S)

ACTION:

For information. Since the document was prepared at the direct instigation of Army and since Army has plans to bring it to the attention of the Administration's Cuban Coordinator, no additional action on our part is indicated.

RE: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS -
CUBA

On June 27, 1963, a Cuban exile residing in the Miami area who is acquainted with both pro and anti-CASTRO activities in Cuba and the United States, and who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished the following information:

He stated that the following text has been distributed in the Miami area on plain unwater-marked white paper in typewritten mimeographed form in the English language:

"Members of Cuba's underground, who are infiltrated in the CASTRO Government, report that as a result of secret United States and Russian negotiations a grand plan is about to be carried out which will tend to produce such apparent changes in Cuba's communist regime which will ease the way for an understanding between the United States and Cuba and thus tear down all anti-Communist resistance to the Cuban Government.

"This Communist master plan contemplates giving amnesty to political prisoners and the reconstruction of Cuba's Communist regime with the purpose of placing in top government positions such prominent men of the left wing as [REDACTED],

██████████ and ██████████ men who although they are either in 'jail' or in 'exile', respond to the tactical changes of the international communist conspiracy. The apparent transformation of Cuba's Communist regime and the displacing of FIDEL CASTRO will be produced as a result of 'uprisings', 'desertions' and 'guerilla fronts', all directed by the communists in Cuba and their agents in exile. b7C

"In order to guarantee the success of this secret and risky plan, the Russians have already started to disarm the militia and have taken over the top commanding positions in CASTRO's regular armed forces.

"The highlight of these negotiations was the meeting of ██████████ and CASTRO in the Soviet Union. In these negotiations the Russians promised that they would remove their troops now in Cuba (not all of them of course, many technicians will remain), they would hold a plebiscite (Communist style) and would reestablish Cuban American relations with the possible participation of the United Nations. b7C

"Responsible members of the underground wish to denounce this deceitful Communist plan in order that Democratic anti-Communists Cubans and Americans may act in time to stop this plan from succeeding. A plan that if carried out successfully will open unimaginable horizons in the program of Communist expansion in this hemisphere."

Source who made the foregoing available did not possess any information concerning the origin or distribution of this mimeographed sheet.

Rebuairtel 7/2/63, and report of SA [REDACTED]
6/14/63, captioned "THE CUBAN SITUATION."

Referenced report was furnished to the Bureau with the intention that it be disseminated as [REDACTED]. It was not disseminated to the Embassy at Mexico City for the reasons set out before, and additionally, since it did not treat directly with Mexico itself. It was felt that this manner of dissemination would afford the greatest possible protection to the informants.

It is felt that any paraphrasing of the report and material would dilute its significance. Additionally, since most of the material is merely the opinion of [REDACTED], failure to divulge their identities and backgrounds renders their opinions valueless. It is, therefore, suggested that the Bureau disseminate referenced report as submitted.

APPENDIX

PRENSA LATINA

Prensa Latina (PL) is a Cuban news agency with headquarters in Havana, Cuba, and branches throughout the world. Prensa Latina, which was organized in Cuba on June 16, 1959, follows in its releases an editorial policy which is anti-United States and pro-Soviet Union.

On April 16, 1962, Prensa Latina filed a statement with the United States Department of Justice conceding that the agency receives the sum of $125,000 (Cuban) monthly from Radio Difusora Nacional, an agency of or under the supervision of a ministry of the Government of the Republic of Cuba.

On April 18, 1962, Prensa Latina entered a plea of nolo contendere in Federal District Court, Washington, D. C., to a charge of failure to comply with the provisions of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended, and was fined $2,000.

NOTE CONTINUED:

The third item concerns our 7/24/63 Cinal, wherein information was furnished concerning impressions gained during visit to Cuba by [REDACTED] who are members of the Communist Party of Mexico and who act as liaison between that party and the group of American communists living in Mexico.
